Singapore Academy of Law's
Legal Industry Framework for Training & Education

“I believe that the caution not to become transfixed with past or present ways of doing things is as much applicable to lawyers and law schools as it is to anyone else. I think we must not “miss the future”; rather, we must choose instead to be equipped so that we might meet it successfully.”

THE HONOURABLE THE CHIEF JUSTICE SUNDARESH MENON

LIFTED Learning Planner

The Legal Industry Framework for Training and Education ('LIFTED') is a professional learning and development initiative by the Singapore Academy of Law ('SAL').

This planner is a tool to help you identify your learning needs and the solutions for you to meet those learning needs ... not just for the practice of the law as it has been or is, but for what it might and can be in the future.

LIFTED helps you identify:

- WHO you are as a learner in terms of your job role and career progression.
- WHY you need to achieve certain standards of performance.
- WHAT you need to know, do and be at each level of job role.
- HOW WHEN
WHERE you can undertake the learning you need to advance in your job role or transition to another within the legal industry.

The LIFTED frameworks are being developed in phases, working with key stakeholders such as The Law Society of Singapore, Singapore Corporate Counsel Association, and Institutes of Higher Education.

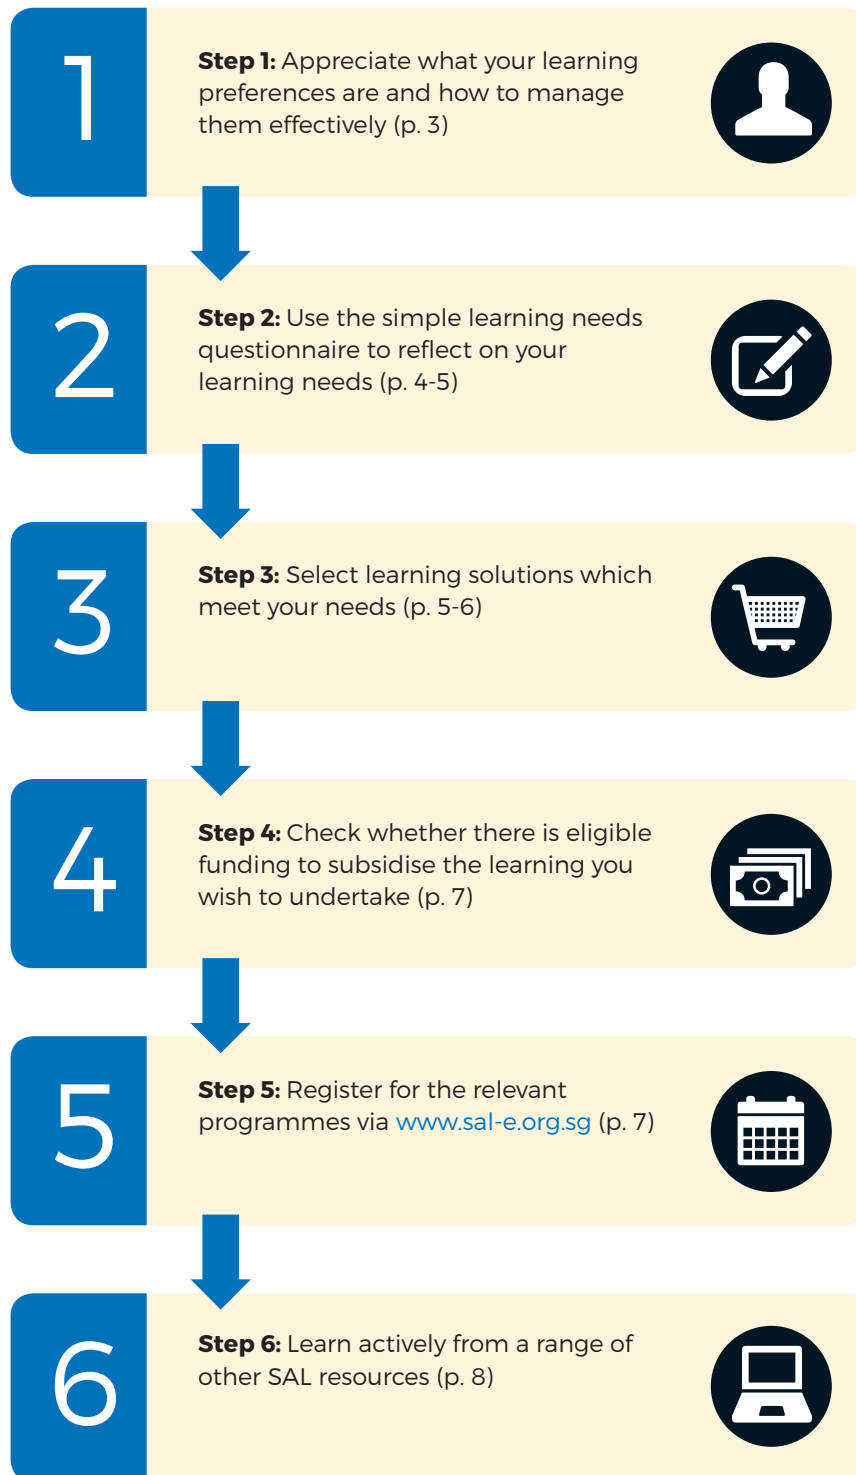

When completed, there will be three LIFTED verticals: Legal Practitioners, In-House Counsel, and Legal Support.

We have included an infographic on the Legal Support vertical as an insert, and will release the others as they are developed over the course of 2017-2018.

For more detailed materials on LIFTED, please visit www.LIFTED.sg

Using this planner

Set out below is a simple six-step process with relevant page numbers, to enable you to make the best use of this planner.

1 What learner type are you?

Being aware of your learning preferences and dispositions enables you to adopt appropriate strategies for making the most of your learning experience. Which of these sound like you?

Visual

“I see what you mean!”

You prefer visual representations of information, concepts, processes etc.

Tip: Choose learning programmes which involve handouts, videos, posters, diagrams, presentation slides and other visual aids. Facilitate your own learning by drawing mind-maps and taking notes using coloured pens to heighten visual interest.

Auditory

“I hear it loud and clear!”

You benefit from what you hear and verbalise.

Tip: Use active listening techniques and participate actively in discussion, debate or Q&A. Instead of taking verbatim written notes, try dictating summary notes after, or recount the activity and what you learnt to an interested friend or colleague.

Read-Write

“I note the point!”

You benefit from written words in the form of detailed textual handouts and readings.

Tip: Take verbatim notes during learning, for review later. Documenting non-verbal thoughts and verbal expressions in writing may also facilitate understanding and retention of learning.

Kinaesthetic

“I just do it!”

You prefer learning through lived experiences.

Tip: Choose experiential learning involving role play, simulations, hands-on activities and being mentored. When undertaking other types of learning, try associating the content with real-life situations you have encountered, as an aide-memoire.

Caution:

Learning styles are not diagnostic or prescriptive. In fact, it has been observed that a learning style or preference may be a learning handicap if it is a sole way that learning takes place.

Remember:

It is important to seek a balance between pursuing learning that engages because it is familiar, and learning that challenges you to step outside of your comfort zone and learn in new ways.

2 Your learning needs

Reflect on your learning needs using the following guide to identify gaps in your capabilities or opportunities for higher-level professional development.

The text in RED provides an illustration. Visit www.LIFTED.sg to use an automated form of this tool.

WHO

Who am I as a learner in terms of my job role?

Tick one.

Tip: No dedicated vertical for your role? Select the one that is closest to the nature of your work for some learning possibilities.

Tick one	LIFTED Vertical
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Legal Practitioner
<input type="checkbox"/>	In-house Counsel
<input type="checkbox"/>	Legal Support

WHY

Why am I seeking to undertake learning?

Rank three reasons, '1' being most immediate.

Tip: Reading key publications on subjects of interest can add to your level of understanding and enhance your face-to-face learning experience. Visit Journals Online and LawNet for some options.

Rank	Need	Format	Level
	Appreciate the law in context and from various perspectives	Conferences	General
1	Acquire baseline skills	Workshops	Foundational
	Develop higher-level skills	Workshops	Intermediate
3	Master advanced skills	Workshops	Advanced
	Establish a functional understanding of various subjects	Lectures/ Seminars	Foundational/ Intermediate
2	Deepen my understanding of various subjects	Seminars/ Roundtables	Advanced
	Obtain a quick update on latest developments in a specific area of my work	Seminars/ Lectures/ e-Learning	Update

WHAT

What areas of learning are my focus?

Match each ranked need to the corresponding focus of learning.

Tip: Already specialising in a particular area? Find out more about SAL's Specialist Accreditation Scheme, also being implemented in phases at the following website: <http://www.sal.org.sg/accreditation>

Rank	Focus	Vertical & Category

1	Technology domain: The application of technology in areas such as legal and general research, information management, data analytics, practice management, knowledge management, workplace productivity; and technology innovations having an impact on the provision of legal services and access to justice etc.	2	2	2
	Interpersonal domain: Written and verbal communication best practices; strategies for working in teams across disciplines and cultures; managing professional relationships and interactions with internal and external parties; familiarity with the jargon and communication formalities of the legal industry; appropriate communication styles for different recipients and contexts etc.	3	3	4
	Intrapersonal domain: Reflective strategies for building self-awareness to understand professional strengths and limitations; managing work-life challenges to sustain professional well-being; best practices for effective work planning, time and resource management; adapting to change; personal branding etc.	4	4	5
	Complementary domain: Generic financial literacy; business acumen and development; leadership and management; resource planning; administrative skills and processes; project management; strategic planning; risk management and compliance etc.	5	5	3
3	Ethical domain: Capacity to deal with ethically ambiguous situations through the exercise of sound judgment and professional conduct; and opportunities to engage with professional mentors and develop an intra-profession network etc.	6	6	5
2	Specialist domain: Niche areas of substantive legal or legal support work by practice area, industry, or technical expertise e.g. family practice, OTC derivatives documentation, building and construction practice, e-discovery and litigation support, corporate secretarial support etc.	7	7	6

3 Find learning programmes

Consolidate your responses in the following table for your LIFTED Learning Key.

Then, match this criteria to available SAL and partner programmes in the SAL Learning Calendar (see insert sheet) to meet your specific learning needs!

Caution: This tool is not a prescription for your learning. Rather, it is a way for you to actively direct your own professional development through reflection on your aims and the available means.
